

Assessment of Occupational Health of Welder

The main objective of this study was to conduct a feasibility study on the occupational health of welders that incorporates all social, economic and environmental aspects together by using the fundamental sustainability approach of Triple Bottom Line (TBL) and to identify key factors for formation of a better living standard for welders. A questionnaire was drafted and inputs from around 200 plus welders were taken, representing the unorganized and various organized manufacturing sectors.